JOAG Voting Member
2010-2012

This will be my second year as a voting member of JOAG, serving again as the Co-Chair of the Awards Committee and as the JOAG Engineer PAC liaison.

I earned a Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering from Brigham Young University in 2003, and a Master of Engineering from Texas A&M University in 2004. While attending BYU I found out about the COSTEP program and ended up serving two summers as a COSTEP with the Indian Health Service.

In 2004, I joined the Indian Health Service and spent three and a half years in the Manlius, New York field office, just outside of Syracuse, before transferring to my current duty location in Elko, Nevada. Since joining the Corps in 2005, I've been active in recruiting and with JOAG. I started out serving on the Recruitment and Retention Committee, eventually serving as Co-Chair of the committee. I am honored to continue my service as a voting member for JOAG, and I'm looking forward to the 2011-2012 operational year!
