LCDR Eva McLanahan
JOAG Voting Member
2011-2013

This is my first year as a JOAG Voting Member. I am serving as the Executive Secretary for JOAG as well as the liaison for the Environmental Health Officer Professional Advisory Committee (PAC).

Prior to becoming a JOAG Voting Member, I was an active general member with the Membership and Welcoming Committees. With the Membership Committee, I served as Secretary for 2010-2011 and the first lead of the Meet and Greet program in 2009-2010. I co-led the Officer Locator Tool workgroup for the Welcoming Committee for 2010-2011. To date, my involvement with JOAG has rewarded me with much experience in leadership, communication, and a tremendous amount of networking opportunities and new friendships.

I earned my BS ('03) in Environmental Health and PhD ('07) in Toxicology from the University of Georgia. I completed a postdoctoral fellowship at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), during which I applied to the U.S. PHS Commissioned Corps and was fortunate to find a new position within the U.S. EPA as an officer. I currently serve as a toxicologist and conduct human health risk assessments, leading the review and implementation of complex physiologically-based pharmacokinetic (PBPK) models in these assessments. In addition, I co-lead a new risk assessment training program for the Agency.
